

Sinclair Broadcasting's plans to force its stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary just two weeks before the election, is a clear example of electioneering and an abuse of the airwaves. Sinclair is obligated by law to serve the public interest, but when large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line and less of what we need for our democracy.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
